A Quiet Home.

"Dear me!" sighed Mr. Turmoyle, as a burst of shrill, childish laughter sounded from the nursery down the hall stairs and into the sitting-room where he was making out some account. "I wish those children would be quiet! Ain't it almost bed time, Tillie?"

"They are probably undressing," Mrs. Turmoyle replied quietly. "I'll go and see if they are ready for bed."

"Do keep them quiet until they are!"

There was an interval of profound silence, and in about half an hour the mother returned.

"They are all asleep now," she said, "Tom had dressed the kitten in Bessie's doll clothes."

The accounts finished, Mr. Turmoyle leaned back in his chair.

"I wish you had some management with those children, Tillie," he said. "I went over to Stone's on business last evening, and you would not know there was a child in the house, and Stone has five while we have only three."

"Perhaps they were abed."

"They were all in the next room," was the triumphant reply. "Stone is proud of them, and well he may be. There is Willie, just the age of our Tom, studying Latin, instead of dressing a kitten in doll's clothes; and Amy, who will not be four years old for three months reads well and knows the multiplication through. Look at our savages!"

"They are getting along well at school, dear. I think Mark is too young yet to study; the others did not go to school till they were five."

"And Tom just manages to write a letter at twelve, Willie is at Latin grammar. And as for manners, why Tom will make more noise alone than all five of Stone's children together."

Mrs. Turmoyle, being a woman of sense, did not continue the argument, but mentally resolved to see Mrs. Stone the next day, and talk with her about the wonderful secret of having five children and a quiet house.

"I am sure I cannot do it," the gentle loving mother thought, with a sigh.

Seated, the next morning, in close conversation, the ladies presented a contrast as marked as the atmosphere of their two homes. The tiny, blue eyed woman, who had no heart to suppress Tom's merry whistle or Bessie's laugh, had left a home where constant care only secured cleanliness, and where childish disorder was manifest everywhere except in the best parlor. She looked at the tall dark-haired woman opposite her, noted the exquisite morning dress, faced with light silk, spotless and unrumpled, and thought regretfully of the marks of ten chubby fingers upon her own, printed there when her baby boy, her darling Mark, had just succeeded in forcing a piece of his "sweetest candy" into mamma's mouth. She noted the dainty order of the sitting room, where every chair stood primly in its appointed place and not even a thread rested upon the carpet, and remembered Mark's stable for his "spress cart" and horse under the lounge, and Bessie keeping house on the lower shelf of the book-case.

Visions haunted her, also, of clippings of paper, bits of string, and odds and ends of dolls' finery upon the table.

Drifting from one scrap of matronly talk to another, the ladies came naturally to the care and management of children, and Mrs. Turmoyle complimented her neighbor on the appearance of her house and the proficiency of her little ones.

"I cannot understand how you accomplish it," she said frankly.

"By system," was the reply. "The education of my children begins, I may say, in their cradles. As soon as they can walk they have their own proper place in their own room, and are trained to perfect silence when older persons are present.

Mrs. Turmoyle thought of the noisy chorus of shouts, the eager recital of the day's pleasures or accidents, that greeted papa, aunties or uncles, in her own nursery, and wondered if Tom, Bessie and Mark could be trained to sit quietly in one place for hours at a time.

"At two years of age I teach my children their letters, and after that they are sent to school. All of them were entered in a private school at three years of age, and at a public school at five. In the intervals of school hours my boys have geographical puzzles, spelling games and problems, and the girls are taught to sew."

"But when do they play?"

"Their games and puzzles are sufficient amusement for the boys, and I allow the girls to cut and fit clothing for a large wax doll."

"But do they not have any hours for running, balls, kites, and other out-door play?"

"I disapprove entirely of out-door play; it ruins clothing, and makes children rude. They have out-door exercise in a long walk to and from school."

As she spoke, the hall door opened quietly, and a fall of footsteps crossed the hall to the sitting-room. Five children, three girls and two boys, came in with languid footsteps, and pale faces from which all childishness seemed stricken. Spotlessly clean, with shiny hair and polished boots, they followed in orderly fashion the lead of the eldest who stood before his mother, awaiting her permission to speak.

"Well, my son?" she said quietly.

"There is no school this afternoon; the senior class is to be examined," he said, wearily.

"No school! Very well, I will set you some sums after dinner, and find you some words to study in the dictionary"

Silently the five sat down and waited till the visitor departed, uncomfortably conscious of ten weary eyes, and five pallid, pinched faces.

Crossing her own doorway, Mrs. Turmoyle was greeted by a merry duet:

"No school! no school!"

Then the tenor:

"Won't you make some bobs for my kite, mamma? There's a splendid wind."

Followed by a sweet soprano:

"And oh, mamma, you promised the first holiday you would trim my doll's bonnet."

"I want a kite, too?" stuck in Mark.

"Oh, do let me get my breath," cried the little woman. "Where's your hat, Tom?"

"Oh, I forgot," said Tom, sweeping it off with a profound bow. "Here, take this chair, and let me take your bonnet and sacque up stairs. You are very tired."

"I'll help make them," said Bessie; "and I'll go and watch Tom mamma, if you don't feel like trimming the bonnet."

"We'll see after dinner," said Mrs. Turmoyle, looking from one round, rosy face to the other, marking the sturdy limbs and dancing eyes. To be sure the hair of all three must be reduced from a state of rebellion before they were presentable at the table, and soap and water were pleasant suggestions in the maternal eyes. There was perfect health and happiness, if the voices were shrill and boots noisy.

"I've been to see Mrs. Stone," she said, when washed and combed, the children gathered around her to wait for papa and dinner, "and I wondered if I could ever make my children as quiet and orderly as hers are."

"Willie Stone is a milk-sop!" said Tom, contemptuously. "Always crying because his head aches! He can't play anything, and daren't move for fear of spoiling his clothes. Wouldn't play foot-ball for fear of getting dust on his shoes! There's a nice boy for you—he might as well be a girl!"

"And mother the teacher had to write a note to Mrs. Stone the day John Gray spilled the ink on Maud's apron. She was so afraid to go home, it was awful! She said her mother would whip her, and keep her on bread and water for a whole day. Miss Lee told her to say it was not her fault, but she said her mother would not believe her."

"Dinner—and here comes papa!" cried Tom.

Mr. Turmoyle came in with a very grave face. He made no comment on the boisterous announcement of the holiday, but stopped to kiss the rosy faces with unwonted tenderness. After dinner he sent the children to the nursery, and he said to his wife, who had been anxiously watching his clouded face:

"Tillie, I met Dr. Holmes on my way home, and he tells me that there have been three cases of scarlet fever from the school. It is raging fearfully, he says."

Mrs. Turmoyle turned pale.

"In the school?" she murmured.

"Well among the scholars."

There was a little more to say, but the heart of each parent sent up a petition to a kind Heavenly Father to keep the plague from their door.

Yet it came. A week later Mark sickened, and in three days more all three were down. Tender, loving care, and unexpected docility of patients, carried the little Turmoyles safely out upon the road to health again. The most nauseous medicines were swallowed if mamma coaxed, and the most stringent stillness was observed when papa was discovered to have tears in his eyes beside Bessie's crib.

The day the children assembled in the sitting-room for the first time was a gala day, but papa was observed to have a sad face.

"While we are thankful, dear children," he said, "for our blessings, let us not forget to sympathize with the sorrows of others. Willie and Maud Stone were buried to-day, and Amy will be deaf for life. The others are still very ill."

At bed-time, when the children slept the sleep of convalescence, Mr. Turmoyle came to the nursery, where the blue-eyed wife was laying out the morning clothing.

"Tillie," he said drawing the little woman close in his strong arms, "I have had a long talk with Dr. Holmes, and I cannot rest until I thank you for our unbroken nursery. Next to God you have saved our children."

"I am sure you never spared yourself in nursing," said Mrs. Turmoyle.

"The nursing was the smallest part of it. Dr. Holmes says it was not the scarlet fever that killed Stone's children, but the mother's system. The fever found overtaxed brains, bodies weakened by want of exercise, tempers made sullen by a deprivation of all childish pleasures. They were nursed by system, no allowance being made for weakness or suffering, and the two that are gone but precede the two that are dangerously ill. If they recover from the fever they will never reach maturity unless their mother sees her error. 'You may thank your wife's management for your children,' the doctor said to me; 'there was something to build upon in the sturdy frames of those young savages.'"

Mrs. Stone could see no fault in her system, though two little graves attested its weakness. Her children, recovering from the fever, there was no relaxation of home rule, and listless, pale and dull-eyed, they went back to the routine.

Four years passed away, and Tom left home for boarding-school, a gentlemanly boy of sixteen, well up in his studies, and in perfect health. Driving home from the station, after starting upon his journey, Mr. and Mrs. Turmoyle passed Mr. Stone's handsome house, prim and spotless, the garden a miracle of order, and no sign of busy little feet on the walk or border."

"Poor Stone!" said Mr. Turmoyle. "He frets sadly for Amy."

"It was hard to lose her—the last of the five," said Mrs. Turmoyle; "and she was such a patient child after she lost her hearing."

"Too patient. There will be no need now of any system in training. Five children, all under the sod! Oh, Tillie, thank God we have not such a home as the one we just passed! Thank God for the merry voices, clear laughter and even the crying of Baby May! May he guard and bless our little ones, and give them good health, right principles and happiness, rather than give us the doubtful blessings of a quiet home."

Not Much of a Fool After All.

Sam Wednesday, and impecunious citizen of Austin, was supposed to be crazy, and his relatives brought him before the county court to have a "lunitaco inquirendo" pass on his mental condition, his delusion being that he was very rich. A lawyer proceeded to ask the crazy man questions to test his sanity.

'I heard that you are going to build a $50,000 residence.'

'It is going to cost $60,000.'

'You don't say so.'

'Yes, and I am going to start a daily paper with $250,000 capital. That's a mere trifle for a man of my means.'

'You seem to have so much money, perhaps you would not object to lending me a thousand dollars.'

'I'd like to do it, Judge, but that would be such a risky investment, everybody would suspect me of being crazy.'

The refusal of the supposed lunatic to seriously entertain the idea of lending money to an Austin lawyer caused the jury to decide that Sam was in full possession of his reasoning faculties.—Texas Siftings.

Stepping Stones to Success.

Learn your business thoroughly.

One to-day is worth two to-morrows.

Always be in a haste, but never in a hurry.

Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

Never fail to keep your appointments, nor to be punctual to the minute.

Be self-reliant; do not take to too much advice, but rather depend on yourself.

Never be idle, but keep your hands or mind usefully employed except when sleeping.

He that ascends a ladder must take the lowest round. All who are above were once below.

Make no haste to be rich; remember that small and steady gains give competency and tranquility of mind.

The Vanity of Men.

"Who buys them?" asked a reporter in a Kearney street "notion" shop, pointing to a lot of tiny pocket mirrors, with nail-cleaners, toothpick and comb, all complete.

"I suppose you think the ladies are our best customers," said the "notion" man, "but it is not so. Men, sir—vain men—are the pickers-up of these unconsidered trifles."

"Pretty men?" inquired the reporter.

The salesman grinned. "It don't matter much how they look," he said, "whether they are apes or Apollos; they want a pocket mirror all the same. They retire every hour or so to some secret place to admire themselves. Talk of the vanity of women! Indeed! It pales, sir; it fades away into insignificance by comparison with the admiration the majority of men have for their own mugs."

"Could you mention—not for publication, of course, but for individual satisfaction—the names of some of these purchasers?"

The notion man looked grave. "I could not give away the secrets of my prison-house," he said solemnly. "I never trust a newspaper man, and in the present regard I hold the confidence these gentlemen have reposed in me as sacred. Why, there are some half a dozen who, entertaining a great respect for my critical judgment of physical beauty, step in here every day to inquire how they are looking. Then it is, 'Am I pale to-day, Jim?' or 'Do you think my color is too high, Jim?' or 'That left eye brow is growing a trifle heavy; don't you think I'd better have it trimmed off a bit?' If I say your color is too high, my friend is off to the barber's for a dab of powder, or—but this is a dead secret—we accommodate him in this shop. If he is too pale we tinge him up. It's wonderful, positively wonderful. Now, the ugliest men are the toughest. If there is the slightest blemish in a pocket mirror, they won't take it, because, forsooth, it may not faithfully reproduce their bright pearl beauty."

"But there are different degress of vanity among these male beauties, are there not?"

"No, sir; there is but one degree and that is the superlative, but there are different degrees of candor. Some are modest and will declare that their moustaches or beard are always getting tangled. Now, there's a good-looking blonde railroad agent on Montgomery street who bought a six-by-four mirror from me the other day, which he keeps in his breast pocket. He is a glutton about his personal beauty, he is; but a real estate man, a fair, stout young person whose office is near him, has found out that he has this glass and begs the loan of it a dozen times a day."

"Then, as a matter of fact, you have more customers among gentlemen for those pretty little articles than among the other sex?"

"Five to one, sir; the percentage of those who carry pocket-mirrors is small among ladies, but eight out of every dozen men have one stowed away in the vest pocket. Why," continued the notion man, "some big, smirking fellows—business men—have come in here and asked me if I could teach how to blush. Just think of it. Fellows in the forties, sir, who have not known a blush for twenty years, believe it would be becoming to them if they could flush up like a moss rose when a girl glances at them. The ancient rounder got hold of the secret and made all the rest hopping mad to to learn it. You won't give it away? Well, when he wanted to blush he'd jab a pin into his leg and keep his mouth shut."

"What did the mouth have to do with it?"

"Because the pin would make him feel like swearing and keeping back the blasphemy was the effort that suffused his cheek. That's the true business, s'help me. Do you want to look at any nice pocket combs to-day? No. Then excuse me, for here's a dude that does," and the philosopher resumed his professional air and, advanced on the customer with interlaced fingers and a captivating smile.—San Francisco Daily Alta.

The largest room in the world under one roof and unbroken by pillars is at St. Petersburg. It is six hundred and twenty feet long by one hundred and fifty in breadth. By daylight it is used for military displays, and a battalion can completely manoeuvre in it. Twenty thousand wax tapers are required to light it. The roof of this structure is a single arch of iron, and exhibits remarkable engineering skill in the architect.

SARAH ANN JONES' PAPERS.

Reminiscence of Farm Life—What Came of Jeremiah's Leaving the Gate Open.

One morning in July I had to bake bread and churn, besides doing all the other housework, so I put the bread into the stove oven, and I took the churn and set it down under a big oak tree that stands in the back yard.

I had just commenced working the churn when I saw Jeremiah pass through the gate into the barnyard.

'Jeremiah,' says I, 'you have left the gate open.'

'Never mind,' says he, 'I am coming back in a minute.'

I didn't think any more about the gate then, but just as I was ready to take out the butter, I happened to look over into the potato patch, and there was a hog rooting up the potatoes.

I called, 'Jer-e-mi-ah!' as loud as I could scream, but all I heard in reply to this patriotic appeal was the word, 'Jer-e-mi-ah!' echoed back from the barn.

My eyes wandered back over the landscape in search of my absent husband, and finally beheld him about a quarter of a mile away, seated on the top of a rail fence in the shade of a large cottonwood, talking to Bill Jinks, who was in the lane on the other side of the fence, burdening the back of an old horse, that I always called Bonaparte, not because he was an uncommonly ambitious animal, but because the greater part of him was composed of bones.

I am well acquainted with both men, and I know that there was little likelihood of Jeremiah returning to the house for the next two hours, so I reluctantly left the churn and went to the rescue of the potatoes. As I started I called the dog. Tige had followed Jeremiah, and knowing that he had gone to sleep in the shade of the cottonwood, but as soon as he heard me call him, he started on a run. Jeremiah heard me at the same time, and slid down off the fence, and sauntered leisurely towards the house.

A hog can always see if a gate is left open when he wants to get into mischief, but never when you want to drive him out. Five times that four-footed quadruped and myself revolved around that potato patch at a speed that would have started the prespiration on a living skeleton in January, but when we passed the gate the sixth time, the brute struck up toward the house, and he and Tige met and had a wrestling match in the butter and buttermilk where I had left the churn. The milk-house door was standing wide open and I made a rush for it, but before I could reach it I saw the hog dart through it, followed by Tige. I heard a tremendous squealing and tearing around in the milk-house, and pretty soon Tige came leading the hog out by the ear. I looked within, and if I ever saw destruction I saw it there. For a moment I forgot everything but the sad spectacle before me, but—

"Sunk in self-consuming anguish
Can the poor heart always ache?
No, the tortured nerve will languish,
Or the strings of life must break."

And fortunately I was aroused from my sorrowful meditations by the voice of Jeremiah exclaiming as he came around the corner of the house:

'What's all this row about, Sally Ann?'

I replied to Jeremiah's question by giving him a very forcible lecture concerning his carelessness, then I turned around and went into the kitchen where I found my bread burnt as black as a coal. I had just taken the bread out of the oven when I heard some one knock at the door.

I wiped the prespiration from my face, and obeying the summons, found myself face to face with Mrs. Gumbrel, the worst gossip in the country. I felt like shutting the door in her face, for I was sure that she had heard the close, if not the whole of my lecture to Jeremiah. I tried, however, to act as if nothing unusual had occurred.

'Good morning, Mrs. Jones,' said she.

'Good morning, Mrs. Gumbrel, says I.

'Won't you come in?' says I.

'Yes, I'll come in for a minute or two,' says she.

'Will you take off your bonnet,' says I.

'Yes,' says she, 'I'll take it off while I stay, for I can cool better with it off.'

She took off her bonnet, and I knew then she had something to communicate before she left, and I resigned myself to endure her company until she was ready to leave. I didn't have to wait long, for she was anxious to unburden her mind.

'Did you hear about the picnic?' says she.

'What picnic?' says I.

'Why,' says she, 'Mrs. Brown is going to have the young folks over, in their wood lot, next Thursday afternoon, to a picnic.'

'Well,' says I, 'if there's anything that I hate and detest and abominate and despise it's a picnic; but, of course the young folks won't feel that way about it, so I must do some cooking for Jacob and David.'

'O,' says she, 'your boys are not to be invited.'

'How do you know that?' says I.

'Why,' says she, 'I heard Mrs. Jinkins tell Mrs. Green, that she heard Mrs. Brown tell Mrs. Sikes, that she wasn't going to invite anybody but the most respectable families, and she named several families that she intended to leave out, and your family was one of them.

I was pretty well stirred up any way, and I didn't stop to think what I was saying, so, says I, 'I'd like to know what has made the Browns so mighty respectable all at once. Maybe my boys are not as respectable as Brown's boys, but I know that Jeremiah's father was never put in jail for hog stealing and my mother wasn't a washerwoman.'

'La, Mrs. Jones!' says she, 'was Brown's father put in jail for hog-stealing, and was Mrs. Brown's mother a washerwoman? Well, I declare! I had never heard of that before, but I always did think they was a kind of a low set for all they put on such big airs.'

I took a thought then about what I was saying, so, says I, 'I did'nt say whether they were or not, I said mine and Jeremiah's wasn't.

She started soon afterwards, and struck a bee line for Brown's.

A few days afterward, Jeremiah came home in a terrible state of anxiety. He said that Brown was threatening to prosecute me for slander, because I had told Mrs. Gumbrel that he used to steal hogs for a living, while his wife took in washing.

'That all comes of leaving gates open, Jeremiah,' says I.

'I don't see what leaving gates open has to do with letting your tongue run about business that don't concern you,' says he.

'Well,' says I, 'I was so worried by the trouble that I wasn't responsible.'

Jeremiah put on his hat and went out to the barn, and for a wonder shut the gate after him. I sent the following note to Brown through the postoffice.

'MR. BROWN—I'm not afraid of your prosecution, but remember that you are a candidate for Sheriff, and if I hear any more of your gab, I'll tell all I know about you.'

I never received any reply to that note, and I suppose Brown must have been guilty of some meanness that he thought I knew about, for I heard nothing more about a slander suit.

The families of Brown and Jones however, have not been in speaking terms since.

A Smart Scheme.

Two darkies had to carry a large desk to the house of Dr. Blister, who had bought it at a furniture store. When they arrived with the desk he was in and directed them where to put it. The darkies expected to get a quarter apiece at least for their extra trouble, but alas! the doctor did not give them anything at all. He forgot all about their sufferings in carrying the heavy desk up two flights of stairs.

They consulted together for a moment in the hall, and then they began to fight and pound each other, calling each other all manner of vile names. No such uproar had been heard since the adjournment of the Legislature.

Dr. Blister hearing the noise, came out and wanted to know the cause of the disturbance.

'Dis heah nigga kep' for hisself de money what you giv him for us bofe, for totin' de desk up de stairs,' said Sam.

'You is a liar. De doctor didn't gib me de money. You got de money and kep' it,' retorted Jim.

'You are both wrong, boys,' said Dr. Blister, 'I didn't give either of you anything, but I'll make it all right. Don't fight any more,' and taking out his pocket book he gave them a quarter each.

Those who assert the colored man has no executive ability should ponder over this item.—Texas Siftings.

Salt to Keep Flies Away.

'What's that for?' asked a customer of a waiter in a Smithfield Street restaurant.

The waiter had a bag of table salt in his hand, and was sprinkling the contents behind the counter and on the floor where the crumbs might fall.

'It's to keep the flies away,' replied the waiter.

'How does it do it?'

'Can't say, sah, ask the manager.'

'We find,' said the manager, 'that by sprinkling salt where there are broken vituals, dirty plates, and other things which attract flies, we can keep these pests away. It fills the air with saline particles, and we have no trouble at all. You can see that this is so by looking here.'

Scraps of bread, melon rinds, and broken meats and pieces of plates were in baskets and shelves behind the counter, but there were not a dozen flies in it.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Worth	George B Williams,

G W RUMBERGER, Secretary. R M MAGEE, Chairman.

THE names of over 500 persons who are either dead, or out of the country, were found on the pension list of the Chicago agency in the late examination of that office. Those names appear regularly every three months on the pension lists as being entitled to pensions. Still exerything was correct to the cent at the Washington settlement. Strange.

THE democratic state ticket is one that every voter can congratulate himself upon. Our man for state treasurer is of the best material, fit for the office in every respect and all that is left to be done is to roll up a rousing democratic vote in every county of the state. Let every democrat do his best to add to a democratic president and governor a democratic state treasurer. In voting for Conrad B. Day, you do not cast your ballot for a political ringster like boss Quay, but for a conscientous and able business man, taken from the foremost ranks of Philadelphia's merchants. Do your duty and success may crown the Day.

THE war-cloud is hanging over Spain and Germany. The Caroline Islands are the bone of contention. Germany thinks Spain has no right to them and demands satisfactory proof to the contrary, before it will keep quiet. A German gunboat intruded upon Spanish waters recently and the Spaniards were very indignant and mad over this seeming impudence of a German naval officer. A mob in Madrid shouted themselves hoarse on the streets calling emperor William, the Crown Prince and Bismark the vilest names, attacked the German embassy, destroyed the coat-of-arms and behaved badly in general. Germany wants a satisfactory apology for the events of that night, or else fight. Spain's position in the quarrel is by no means a peaceful one and indications clearly point to war between the two nations, in which others may take a hand, when the ball commences.

GOVERNOR HOADLY'S SPEECH

Governor Hoadly opened the Ohio campaign on Saturday. The Republican side had been opened previously by Senator Sherman and Judge Foraker and the Democratic keynote had been struck by Congressman Hill, but there is always interest in what Governor Hoadly says, because it is well said, and this year his voice borrows potency for the reason that his administration is on trial and he is himself the leading advocate in the cause.

In his speech on Saturday, Governor Hoadly spent considerable time in answering the speeches of Senator Sherman and his competitor Judge Foraker. Those gentlemen having waved the bloody shirt until it was torn into tatters, Mr. Hoadly turned his attention to tearing them up, and he succeeded most admirably. He pointed out to his auditors the folly of discussing war issues twenty years after the war, and presented his case with such force as to make Sherman's utterances ludicrous.

Governor Hoadly fitly referred to the deaths of Lincoln and Grant 'with words upon their lips and feelings in their hearts of 'charity to all, malice toward none,' as the burial of strife between the sections, but he did not rest with that annihilation of the bloody-shirt issue as a sufficient ground to enlist the support of the people. He discussed the living issues of the contest with that ability and congency for which he is famous, and proved that the Democratic party had kept its faith with the people and was entitled to public endorsement. It was a great effort and leaves no room to doubt the success of the party in the State.—Patriot.

Miscellaneous News.

John Dubois, of Clearfield county, has this season cut and stored away in eight barns 462 tons of hay. His wheat crop amounts to over 1,300 bushels.

LIGHT FROSTS.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 4.—Light frosts are reported on the Eastern Division of the Omaha Road, but no damage. There were heavy frosts on the Sioux City Road, between this city and Sioux City, Iowa, but the extent of the damage is not stated.

Indian boys shoot for pennies on the streets of Martinsburg, Blair county, with bows and arrows. The modus operandi is to stick a stick in the ground and place a penny on the end of it. The little copper colored fellows then draw a bead on it and the penny drops every pop.

A LARGE BEQUEST TO LUTHERAN COLLEGES.

MACUNGIE, Sept. 3.—The appraisement of the personal property, without the real estate, of the late Henry Singmaster, of Stroudsburg, amounted to $92,000. The real estate is estimated to be worth $80,000, making the estate worth over $125,000. James Singmaster, Esq., of this place is the administrator. Nearly all the money goes to Lutheran colleges.

Frightened to Death.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Nathaniel S. Northup, an estimable lady 46 years of age, whose husband is division master of the Pawtucket Valley Branch of the New York, Providence and Boston Railroad, was frightened to death last evening in Natick, by a party of boys. With two other ladies she was proceeding along a road when the boys came upon them suddenly and at a run. Thinking that they were about to be assaulted by tramps or roughs the women fled. Mrs. Northup was seized with spasms, and died while being conveyed to her home.

President Cleveland Out of the Woods.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 6.—President Cleveland, who arrived here at an early hour this morning with Dr. Ward, went immediately to the latter's residence, where he remained until 5:20 o'clock this afternoon, leaving for Washington immediately afterward, accompanied only by Colonel Lamont. He left on the regular train over the West Shore Railroad, President Winslow's private car being placed at his disposal. During the day the State officers and many local potiticians called on President Cleveland.

A Hebrew Festival.

The New Year of the Hebrew people begins on September 10, 1885, or, according to the Hebraic method of computation, Tishri, the 1st, 5646. This festiyal is called in the Hebrew tongue Rosh Hashana, which means head or beginning of the year, and the Jews claim that 5646 years have elapsed since the world was originally created. It is one of the most important days in the whole year to the Israelite, and is consequently very sacredly observed. The services in the synagogue are of an impressive nature, and the day is commemorated by orthodox and radical Jew alike, no matter how they differ on minor points in doctrine.

Cost of Grant's Funeral.

Undertaker Merritt Makes the Figures Public Because the Public Must Settle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Undertaker Merritt said that he did not give the public the items of his bill for attending the Grant funeral, because it would be unprofessional. He said he would be glad, otherwise, to have the whole thing made public, because it would then be seen that the bill was reasonable. It was suggested that, as the public was asked through the War Department to pay the bill, there could be no harm in telling the public what it would have to put up.

'That seems reasonable,' said he. 'The exact figures are $14,162.57. That includes everything I did or furnished here and at Mount McGregor, including the $5,000 for carriages. We did not charge a cent more than we would have charged anyone else.'

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

SELINSGROVE AROUSED AT MIDNIGHT TO COMBAT THE FLAMES—THE LOSS AND INSURANCE.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., Sept. 7.—About 12 o'clock last night our quiet borough was aroused by a sudden shock of an explosion, caused by the ignition of coal oil and powder, which was instantly followed by the sounding of the fire alarm. The fire spread so rapidly that it was at once seen that it was H. E. McKelvey's grocery, between Penn's Creek and the Pennsylvania Canal. The Susquehannah Hose Company and the Dauntless Hook and Ladder Company were at once on hand, and with the aid of many citizens with buckets the fire was kept from spreading. The engine did noble work. The grocery, with the grain warehouse attached, were totally destroyed. The loss and insurance is as follows: John Hummel, building, loss about $1,200, insured for $1,000; H. E. McKeivey, grocery stock, loss $5,500, insurance $4,500; Geo. J. Schock, wheat, loss $1,000, insured for $700; total loss, $7,700; total insurance, $6,200. The grain and stock were insured by Agent Wm. H. Snyder, in the Royal, Phoenix, Halifax and Connecticut Fire Insurance Companies. How the fire originated is yet a mystery.

Encouraging News of Reviving Business throughout the Country.

EASTON, Sept. 4.—The Hyatt Slate Company, which recently removed its works from Slatington to Bangor, Northampton County, has commenced the manufacture of slate. The works have a capacity for turning out 15,000 slates per day, and will give employment to seventy five hands, twenty of whom are to be girls.

Work has been resumed at Cornish & Co's great organ factory at Washington, N. J. The Philadelphia Shoe Manufacturing Company, at the same place, is erecting a large brick factory, and has more orders than it can fill.

The nail factory at Oxford, N. J., will resume work on Monday next, and the furnace and rolling mill will be started two weeks later.

A silk mill 50 by 160 feet is to be built at Stroudsburg. The mill is to be erected by the contribution of the citizens.

The contract for the erection of the silk mill in Philipsburg N. J., has been awarded to James M. Ritter, of Allentown, Pa., for $37,985. Of that amount $35,000 has been subscribed by the citizens.

Nailer's Wages Increased.

POTTSTOWN, Sept. 4.—Ellis & Lessig have increased the wages of their nailers 12 per cent. In conversation Mr. Lessig said that they have lots of orders on hand, and constant inquiries are being made, and that the situation is decidedly encouraging.

THE HAT TRADE BOOMING.

READING, Sept. 4.—The hat trade in this district is better now than it has been for years. Nearly all the factories are working full-handed in all departments. The demand is greater than for a number of seasons, and the factories that manufacture ladies' hats are pressed to their utmost capacity. These hats are all being made on orders, and the brisk trade will continue for about two months more.

Lost on Bald Mountain.

WILKESBARRE, Sept. 5.—A horrible tale of suffering and privation has just come to light here. Last Friday a week John Connors, a young man employed as a miner at Plymouth, started out on a spree, which was his custom every month, and continued to drink until Tuesday last, when he was seized with delirium tremens. He wandered away from his companions and nothing was heard of him until yesterday afternoon, when he was discovered on Bald Mountain, a lonely spot ten miles from here, inhabited principally by bears and snakes. A little daughter of Jacob Knecht, a farmer, who resides near the mountain, heard strange cries on Wednesday night and told her father that they must be those of a man lost in the woods. The father placed but little reliance in the girl's story, thinking that the noise she heard was made by a bear. Nothing more was thought of the matter until Thursday night, when the whole family was awakened by the most heartrending cries. The sound came from the eastward. That it was the appeal of a human being in distress there was no longer any doubt, and at the suggestion of Mrs. Knecht the husband and two sons arose from their beds, and, procuring lamps, went out to make a search.

At the base of the mountain and but one mile from the house a horrible spectacle presented itself. Among the brier bushes, the home of the blacksnake, was found the nude form of a man in the last stages of starvation and slowly dying. His body, from head to foot, was covered with sores and he was barely able to speak. He was carried to Mr. Knecht's house and this morning brought to the hospital. The physicians are hopeful that with proper care he may recover. The supposition is that the unfortunate man found his way into the woods and, becoming lost, roamed around in all directions, amidst brier brushes and rocky ledges, until all the clothes were torn from his body. He was on the mountain four days and during that time ate nothing but a few berries.

A PLUCKY WOMAN'S FIGHT WITH A ROBBER.

ERIE, Sept. 5.—In the heart of this city of forty thousand inhabitants masked robbers entered a prominent residence this morning occupied by Mrs. Lottie Steel and Miss Mary Dougan and plundered it of valuables. Seizing Mrs. Steel as she lay in bed one of the masked men put a revolver to her forehead and threatened to blow her brains out if she stirred. The plucky widow dashed away the weapon and sprang upon the robber, screaming for help and clinging to his neck. In his effort to escape the man had to carry the lady with him to the door. He finally succeeded in freeing himself and escaped with his companion.

IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR PEACE.—Changes of climate, diet and water, ofttimes atmospheric changes alone, will subject some member of the family to cholera morbus, dysentery, &c., when that wail ot misery in the "wee sma' hours of the night" announce the fact, and you are sent from your comfortable bed across lots or down back alleys for a doctor, 'twould be a good time to reflect that had you only secured a bottle of Curtis' Carmelite Cordial in time, you could with a few drops have headed off the attack, sayed a doctor's bill, and secured a peaceful night's rest. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

Dyspepsia.
GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

FOR SALE.—S. K. Faust gives notice that he wishes to sell his valuable farming land situate in Millheim borough north of Abs. Harter's farm, and which he lately bought of David Scholl. The land is in first-class condition and purchasers will find it a good investment.

—The county papers are urging the citizens of Aaronsburg to hold a centennial next year, the town being 100 years old then. Our sistertown seems to have but little to say on the subject so far.

—Harrisburg will celebrate her one hundredth anniversary or centennial next week. Immense preparations are being made for a fine celebration. Every trade and industry will be represented.

—Ayer's Ague Cure acts directly on the liver and biliary apparatus, and drives out the malarial poison which induces liver complaints and bilious disorders. Warranted to cure, or money refunded.

—Our friend, John Miller, of the Main street meat market feels very much relieved since the passage of that 31 foot monster last Saturday. It was duly bottled and corked up and kept on exhibition in Musser's hotel.

—R. D. Bierly, the boss carpenter from Rebersburg, assisted by his crew of men are putting the finishing touches to A. J. Harter's new house on Penn street, which when completed will be a credit to the mechanics.

—On our ride to Madisonburg last Saturday, we noticed that Brushvalley is richly blessed with apples, many of the trees fairly groaning under their heavy load, while the crop in most of the eastern counties is said to be a failure.

—We understand that the Madisonburg people contemplate holding another picnic next Saturday, on the same ground in Grimm's woods. The band is again invited to attend during the day and they have concluded to go.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—William Weaver and A. D. Weaver, executors of the estate of Frederick Weaver, deceased, late of Haines township, will sell the farm and mountainland of decedent, one mile east of Aaronsburg, on Friday, September 25th, instant.

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I HAVE BEEN a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. 32-4t

—The picnic of the St. Paul's Sunday School, in Haines township, which was announced for the 12th instant, has been postponed until Saturday, Sept. 19th, when the Woodward and Wolfe's Sunday schools will participate.

—Friday and Saturday evening the diamond was filled with big crowds of people to see and hear the open air concert given by a party selling patent medicines. Everybody was pleased with the show and quite a number bought of the medicines.

—Miss Puella E. Dornblaser, of Clintondale, was in town over Sunday, and in the evening delivered a fine lecture in the Lutheran church, on her favorite subject, "Home and Foreign Missions." The lady is one of the most active mission workers in the synod.

—Captain John A. Miller met with a painful accident last Monday morning. As he was rolling a log on Lamey's saw mill, a few miles west of town, it caught his one leg and tore his big toe almost entirely from the foot. It is feared that amputation will be necessary.

—D. A. Musser and lady departed yesterday morning for Spring Mills, where they took the westernbound train. They expect to make an extended trip to several of the western states. Mr. Musser intends to go even as far as Montana territory. We wish them a plaasant and safe journey.

—Mrs. John Hess, an old widow lady of Woodward, died suddenly last Friday at her residence in said place. She had been out to the garden and when on her way back to the house she took very sick and had to be carried on the back porch. A hemorrhage set in and in a very short time life was gone. She was buried yesterday.

—Lycoming county is greatly afflicted with hog cholera. Henry Decker, residing in said county recently lost 65 head. The porkers are covered all over with sores and the flies succeed in pesting the animals. Nine young ducks which caught the flies on Mr. Deckers hogs, died, doubtless poisoned by the flies.

—Preaching in the U. B. Church in Christ in Millheim next Sunday at 10.30, a. m; Rebersburg at 2.30, p. m.; Washington Furnace, 7.30, p. m.

In two weeks from Sunday next, in the forenoon at 10.30, Sept. 27th, I will preach my farewell sermon. A collection will be lifted, and I hope the brethren and friends will give me a liberal farewell send-off. C. W. RAVER,
U. B. Pastor.

MULTUM IN PARVO.—McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparilla Alterative is the most highly concentrated, most harmoniously and skilfully combined of all the blood medicines offered the public. Many certificates from well-known and worthy persons could be furnished to substantiate the virtues claimed for this great medicine, but the manufacturer prefers simply to say any purchaser feeling the benefit derived from the use of a bottle not equivalent to the seventy-five cents invested in the purchase can have their money returned.

—The rain on Saturday completely spoiled the picnic in Grimm's woods near Madisonburg. The Millheim band had no occasion to return to the grounds after dinner, and whiled away the afternoon by entertainining the disappointed picnickers at Bartges' hotel.

—Geo. W. Swartz, and family, of Lewistown, Pa., were sojourning among us for a week, having been on a visit to his parents on North street. George is a whole-souled fellow and his many friends always greet him with pleasure. He was one of our callers on Monday forenoon.

—The Farmer's Fair at William's Grove, near Mechanicsburg, Pa., was a grand success this year. It far surpassed previous years in the display of farming implements and machinery from many states. All the latest improvements of every design were on exhibition.

—By taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla many a poor sufferer who submits to the surgeon's knife because of malignant scrofulous swellings, might be saved, sound and whole. This will purge out the corruption which pollutes the blood, and by which such complaints are originated and fed.

—The annual picnic of the Patrons of Husbandry of Centre county will take place on next Thursday, September 17. The old ground on top of Nittany mountain near Centre Hall has been selected for the occasion. Among the speakers will be Col. Victor E. Piollett, of Bedford Co., and Col. R. H. Thomas, of Cumberland Co.

—Mrs. Sue A. Richart, of Cedarville, Stephenson Co., Ill., arrived in town last week and spent a few days with Mrs. J. H. Reifsnyder, an old friend of hers. The western lady is also one of the JOURNAL's oldest patrons. We wish her a very pleasant time during her visit among the hills and valleys of old Pennsylvania.

—On Friday, Sept. 25th, 1885 at one o'clock, P. M., the heirs of George Breon, dec'd, by their agent, Jonathan Harter, will sell at public sale on the premises in Gregg township, the real estate of decedent, consisting of 175 acres of cultivated and timber land, with a good dwelling house, barn and all necessary outbuildings thereon erected.

—FOR habitual constipation, billiousness, sick hsadache, torpidity of the liver, congestion of the kidneys, malaria and all complications arising from a degenerated condition of the bowels, liver or kidneys, McDonald's Improved Liver Pills can be depended upon for certain and permanent relief; as a dinner pill, gentle cathartic and safe aperient, they are without an equal. Many eminent physicians use them in their daily practice. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

SMITH TOWN.

James Mowery, a former resident of this place, was sojurning in our midst.

Last week our little hamlet was made quite lively by three steam threshers—Duck's, Wert's and Krumrine's, all of whom are boss threshers.

On Monday while J. H. Frank was cultivating his field, the horses got on a soft place and the ground suddenly gave away under them. Had it not been for the stump of a large tree the roots of which supported the horses, they would have gone down pretty deep.

Miss Minnie Duck was to Penn Hall and Spring Mills over Sunday visiting friends.

We now enjoy the convenience of hearing the Millheim town clock strike.

Squire Duck was the first one to get through with his seeding.

The papers are full of marriages at present and we think it will be that way all through this month. After the first of October the matrimonial campaign will likely be more quiet.

Our "young farmer" claims to have gained five pounds in one week, since he quit farming.

AARONSBURG.

The Journal was one day late last week in its appearance at this office. Your correspondent was left in the cold, did not get a copy.

Quite a number of our young folks were to Millheim on last Saturday evening to hear and see the patent medicine man.

The Aaronsburg Base Ball club fell a victim to the Centre Hall club on last Monday—Centre Hall 53, Aaronsburg 3. Now is your time, Millheim club.

Aaronsburg has quite a large number of visitors during last and this week, A Mrs. Seltzer and daughter, of Lockhaven, and Mr. Jacob Mingle, from Ill. are the guests of H. A. Mingle. Condo Bros. from Indiana are stopping with their brother Wm. Condo. A Mr. More, wife and two daughters, from Mifflinburg, at J. H. Musser's, and many others whose names and addresses we did not learn.

Susie Lenker paid a flying visit to her sister Maggie at Lemont, Pa.

That opening at the harvest services in the Lutheran church on last Sunday evening was splendid, especially the Bass Solo by D. K. Musser.

Weaver and Kister's brick kiln, north of town, which is in full blast, is quite an evening resort for some of our young girls and boys.

Klinefelter's corps of painters left town and have gone to Fred Limberts, north east of town, to paint his house inside and outside.

Some of our farmers are selling their potatoes to butcher Hoy, delivered at Coburn at 30c. per bushel. ANOTHER.

—Jas. R. Irwin, druggist, Curwinsville, Pa., writes:
'J. A. McDonald. DEAR SIR:—Send us ½ gross of your Worm Powders—they give good satisfaction to our trade. Professionally, I always recommend them, as I consider they embody to the utmost the principal and most desirable points in a vermifuge—smallness of dose, easiness to take, compactness and elegance, while our steadily increasing sales attest their value as a worm destroyer and the satisfaction they give our trade.'
Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

COBURN.

Miss —— Musser is visiting friends in Woodward.

Boys, are you going to attend camp-meeting next Sunday. You can have my horse and buggy for XX.

The work on our new buildings is slowly moving along.

Our town is rather quiet just now, but we think there will be enough stir next week, when the colored camp-meeting will be coming off at this place.

John Bowersox's cow had its ear and tail cut off in a collision with the iron horse on Monday morning, as the train was going West. Z.

Farmers are very busy putting out crops.

The largest gang of gypsies this summer was seen last week passing through our town.

Twenty-eight of our jolliest fellows helped in the serenade of James W. Kerstetter.

Mr. Wm. Kreamer now also has a good stable on his premises.

Whitmer & Lincoln moved their scales from near the tavern over to their grain house.

The long talked-of (colored) camp-meeting will commence to-morrow, Friday.

Miss Claud Smith, from Logansville, is visiting at Jos. Kleckner's.

Trumpfheller, Vonada & Co., have a new sign up, indicating that they still live.

MADISONBURG.

Simon Hazel is able to be out of the house again.

Most of our farmers are done seeding.

Some few farmers have commenced to cut off corn. The corn will yield a good crop this season.

The picnic on Saturday was almost a complete failure. The prospects in the morning were good and a large crowd of people was expected, but the rain at noon kept them all at home. A real good dance in the evening at the hotel wound up the day. The committee expect to try it over next Saturday.

The Millheim Cornet Band spent Saturday in our town, and we had the pleasure of listening to some of their excellent music.

Potatoes are not as plenty as was expected and as a general thing are small in size.

Again we are compelled to record the death of some of L. B. Stover's live stock. A fine young calf, which he had taken down to his farm a few days ago, got sick and died. It is said that too much lard and laudanum was administered. In my last letter I said that Mr. Stover had lost four horses in the last year and a half. I take that back—it was only three. However, the calf is the fourth case of death. STILL.

THE GREAT REGULATOR
SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
PURELY VEGETABLE.

Are You Bilious?
The Regulator never fails to cure. I most cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from Bilious Attacks or any Disease caused by a disarranged state of the Liver.
KANSAS CITY, Mo. W. R. BERNARD.

Do You Want Good Digestion?
I suffered intensely with Full Stomach, Headache, etc. A neighbor, who had taken Simmons Liver Regulator, told me it was a sure cure for my trouble. The first dose I took relieved me very much, and in one week's time I was as strong and hearty as ever I was. It is the best medicine I ever took for Dyspepsia.
RICHMOND, Va. H. G. CRENSHAW.

Do You Suffer from Constipation?
Testimony of HIRAM WARNER, Chief-Justice of Ga.: "I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for Constipation of my Bowels, caused by a temporary Derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always with decided benefit."

Have You Malaria?
I have had experience with Simmons Liver Regulator since 1866, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times for diseases peculiar to malarial regions. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

From Pole to Pole
AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.
The Harpooner's Story.
New Bedford, June 1, 1883.
DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.
Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.
Masseu, Basutoland (S. Africa,) March 7, 1882.
DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.
Yours truly, T. K. BODEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.

QUAKER
Is the Best
TABLE SAUCE.
Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.

Girl Car Conductors.

In Chili, young women figure as car conductors. The experiment was first tried during the recent war with Peru, when all the able bodied men were sent to the army, and proved so successful that the practice of their employment has become permanent, to the advantage it is said, of both the companies, the women and the public. It is very odd to see a woman with a bell punch taking up fares, and the first impression is not favorable; but a stranger becomes accustomed to this as to all other novelties, and concludes that it is not such a bad idea after all. The conductors, or conductresses, are usually young and sometimes very pretty, being commonly of the mixed race—of Indian and Spanish blood. They wear a neat uniform of blue flannel, with a jaunty Panama hat, and a many-pocketed white pinafore reaching from the breast to the ankles, and trimmed with dainty frills. In these pockets they carry small change and tickets, while hanging to a strap over their shoulders is a little portmaneau or shopping-bag, in which is a lunch, a pocket handkerchief, and surplus money and tickets. On paying his fare, each passenger receives a yellow paper ticket numbered, which he is expected to destroy. The girls are charged with so many tickets, and when they return to headquarters are expected to return money for all that are missing, any deficit being deducted from their wages, which are twenty-five dollars a month. As an additional check upon dishonesty, spotters are stationed along the line, who hop on the car as it passes, count the passengers, write the number down in a memorandum book, and jump off. A few blocks further on another spotter repeats the job, and these books are compared by the chief inspectors, to see that the returns of the conductoress correspond. The greatest annoyance to the girls is from the young men, who follow the cars carrying the pretty one, and chat with them on the platform. These fellows are called mosquitoes here, because they buzz and hop and pester people so. Not long ago a comic paper in Valparaiso published a cartoon showing a street car surrounded by insects, which bore the faces of young men about town. Some of the fashionable dudes who obtained this notoriety were so chaffed at the clubs, and by their companions, that they retired into seclusion for a time, until their mortification subsided.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

'My dear,' remonstrated a wife, peering out from under the bedclothes, 'I do wish you would use the word 'sheol.' It sounds better.' 'It may sound better at times,' replied her husband, who was noisily nursing his heel, 'but when a man steps on a tack he wants the old version.

Think all you speak; but speak not all you think;

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

QUAKER
TABLE SAUCE.
Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
